
Martin, Wayne & Carol

Their story seemed to be the picture-perfect American Dream. After graduating from the University of North Carolina Dental School, Wayne and Carol built a thriving dental practice. Wayne had practiced for 15 years and Carol had been his dental hygienist for nine years when Carol came home to raise their three beautiful daughters.

Wayne owned three corporations, was on the Board of Directors of a bank, served on the vestry at their church, and was head of the Boy Scouts. They owned a dream home in rural North Carolina and drove luxury automobiles. One thing was missing... SECURITY. If Wayne injured one finger on his right hand, he was out of business. And with his full schedule, he had also run out of time.

Driving home from the beach one Sunday afternoon, their Lincoln broke down. After sitting by the side of the road for several hours, a young motorist stopped to help. Two weeks later, that same young man showed Wayne and Carol a business opportunity.

For several years, Wayne had been looking for a business that would enable him to earn an extra $1000 a month. Even after two unsuccessful franchise business ventures and several sole-proprietorships, Wayne and Carol asked themselves one simple question: "What if it would work?" They started immediately, excited about having more money, more time, and working together again.

After nine months, they made Platinum, and after 4-1/2 years, qualified as Diamonds. After just seven years in business, Wayne retired from the dental practice. Today, they live in a 5,000-square-foot luxury home in affluent Keller, Texas, located between Dallas and Fort Worth. Among their favorite cars are their Rolls-Royce and Mercedes Benz sedan.

Wayne and Carol travel frequently, both within the United States and abroad. Wayne enjoys tending to his rose gardens and playing golf. Carol enjoys shopping in the elite Dallas boutiques and visiting her grandchildren. They both cherish unlimited time with each other, their daughters, sons-in-law, and grandchildren. Their business continues to provide that "pot of gold at the end of the rainbow."
